Deal with very long links has become more and more frustrating, especially as computer users are nowadays quickly running out of patience. What can you do when you desperately need to create a short version of a link and don't have the time, nor the tools to do it? The answer is simple. You grab esee.ly URL Shortener for Chrome, an extension that derives from the bigger website service with the same name. In just a matter of seconds, your link will be shortened, and you will not have even pasted it into its menu to achieve this. It's simple, it's useful, it's efficient. Probably the first thing any individual attempting to use this extension will notice, is how basic this extension really is. It's made up of a couple of empty cells and a few buttons. Yet, the functionality it brings to the table is enough to convince users that you shouldn't always "judge a book by its cover." The most interesting feature is the fact that the extension will automatically shorten the link of the webpage you're currently on, just in case. It saves you a few seconds, but when you're in a hurry, things as simple as copying and pasting a link could become troublesome. Plays well with social media. Owing to the fact that most users try to shorten URLs in order to share them with someone online, one shouldn't really be surprised that an extension such as this was thought to work well with social media. Thus, the buttons at the bottom of the menu allow one to directly post resulting short links on either Facebook or Twitter. If that is not enough for you, this extension also allows you to create a QR code containing your link and also to copy the resulting link for work with other applications or services. The bottom line with this extension is that while it may not be useful to all, for those who will seek the exact functionality it offers, esee.ly URL Shortener for Chrome will meet all requirements. At this point, nothing should be changed regarding this add-on. It works and offers exactly what it advertises. Esee.Jy URL Shortener For Chrome Keygen Full Version Free X64 [April-2022]

Featuring a clean and elegant interface, this extension helps users to shorten long URLs and post them on their social media. It supports multiple URL formats, including dynamic requests, JSON, XML, and RSS. This extension is one of the most useful ones that Google has ever developed. One of the best add-ons out there for Google Chrome, it allows one to type a URL and in the search bar, type "Facebook" or "Twitter", for example. It will automatically and instantly tell you if the link you have found has any post for social media or not. As you can imagine, this extension may not work properly on your system, so make sure that you have the latest version before you go further with this extension. As of today, the latest version of this extension is v6.3.4. There is no problem in getting this extension installed. All you have to do is to simply click "Install". After clicking "Install", the installation process may take some time. While the extension is installing, a black rectangle with a yellow background will pop up on your browser, telling you that the extension is being installed. Once installed, you will immediately notice the appearance of a new icon on the right side of the top menu bar, in the section that looks like a Google logo. From this icon, you can simply click on the main icons and get directly to the settings. When you first install the extension, there is no option to make a background color for the text. This is not an actual problem as it is not hard to make the text color a different shade. For that, you have to first go to the settings. It is here where you will find an option to make the background color a different color. Here you also find a couple of options for the custom features. These are the features that can be customized on the extension. If you have used other extensions in the past, this will be very familiar for you. Here you will find the "Add" button to add the URL of the website you want to shorten. After that, you will find an "OK" button. Simply click on that to continue. You will be taken to the next page where you will have to provide the URL of the website you want to shorten. In order to make the process more simple, it is best to type the URL of the website, and just press "Enter" when you have finished typing. After that, a small window will appear.
